

LEADERSHIP IN SAFETY

 7 CREDITS

A one-day webinar course designed to develop workplace leaders who inspire a culture of health and safety in the workplace.

The course is designed for:

- Entry level forepersons, supervisors or managers, or experienced forepersons, supervisors or managers if they have learnt on the job and would benefit from having a framework put around their knowledge, skill and experience, or an opportunity to refresh their knowledge of the principles involved.
- People with responsibilities in any of the following:
  - supervising teams or sites, training, supervision and monitoring of workers (including informally, e.g. mentoring, facilitating toolbox talks, etc.), competence assessments, contributing competence information to SSSP/risk management documentation, developing training policies, procedures and programmes (formal or informal).
- Learners who may or may not have taken Supervisor course.

How you will be assessed

You will need to complete and submit a take home assignment within 3 months of attending the course.

What the session covers

This course provides industry leaders with tools to positively engage with workers, empower others to be safe on-site and build a culture of health and safety.

We will talk about what leadership in safety means and how it can improve workplace culture.

Learners are provided with practical tools and proven techniques to engage with workers in a meaningful way, build a supportive workplace and effectively empower workers.

During the course, Learners will take part in facilitated discussions, and share ideas and experiences from their own careers. We will discuss responsibilities of workers and leaders under the HSWA 2015 and outline the benefits to an organisation of adopting a culture that focuses on health and safety.

The aim of the course is to provide Learners with confidence to work with their company's senior leaders so they will support and encourage the healthy and safety culture and mindset across their organisation.

Language requirements

To complete this course successfully, learners must be able to read and understand conversational English and have access to a device with internet connection. For the best webinar experience, please use a laptop with Wi-Fi connection.

What you'll get at the end of the course

- A Site Safety Card (Passport) valid for two years
- 8 Licensed Building Practitioner points
- 7 credits towards the Health and Safety in Construction Programme
- A downloadable and printable E-certificate to celebrate your achievement

Next learning steps

Site Safe offers a range of one and two-day courses which are routinely updated. We encourage you to attend these courses to build on the learning you have already achieved.
